Little Brown, Co 1970. Their paths kept intersecting as they embarked on studying energy therapy separately, then together. There are a series of 5 films of their joint training called Helping Individuals and Families Change based on these combined teachings.

Mary Jo dedicated her early professional years supporting Virginia's dream of launching her teaching legacy in 1977 that was called Avanta Network. She served on the first Governing Council of Avanta Network and coordinated the first training of Avanta Network held in Park City Utah in 1981 with the University of Utah where Dr. Bulbrook was Director of the Psycho-Social Nursing Department. The blue flame shown below is a replica of the original symbol used for Avanta Network and was designed in gold for this effort.

In June 2016, Mary Jo was invited to present her experiences with Virginia blending Energy Medicine and Energy Therapy with Mary Leslie called: "Widening Our Lens, Deepening Our Practice: An Exploration of Energy Within the Context of the Teachings of Virginia Satir at the 100th Anniversary of Virginia's life & legacy in Vancouver, Canada. This launched Mary Jo's reconnecting with the legacy of Virginia now call The Virginia Satir Global Network.

Virginia Satir 1988 Quotes p.336 The New Peoplemaking

"The challenge of becoming more fully human is to be open to and to contact that power we call by many names, God being one frequently used. I believe that successful living depends on our making and accepting a relationship to our life force."

"I consider the first step in any change is to contact the spirit. Then together we can clear the way to release the energy for going toward health. This too is spirituality in action. P. 341

Peace Within, Peace Between, and Peace Among Satir 1988 p. 368 & 369

VIRGINIA SATIR
PEACE WITHIN PEACE BETWEEN PEACE AMONG

"Creating peace in the world strongly resembles making peace in the family. We are learning how to heal families, and we can use those learnings to heal the world.

Our global family is dysfunctional and, in effect, operates with the same themes as any other dysfunctional family.

In many governments, power is concentrated in one person or role. Identity is seen in terms of conformity and obedience and autonomy is subject to someone else's approval. In and between countries conflict is often dealt with by blame and punishments. Solutions are reached by decree, threat, force, conflict, war, and avoidance. Trust is frequently betrayed and therefore suspect. Relationships are based on dominance and submission rather than love, compassion respect and value for each other.

The Five Freedoms

To See and Hear what is here, instead of what should be, was or will be.

To Say what one feels and thinks, instead of what one should.

To Feel what one feels, instead of what one ought.

To Ask for what one wants, instead of always waiting for permission.

To Take Risks in ones own behalf, instead of choosing to be only 'secure' and not rocking the boat.

Virginia Satir

The Satir Therapy Model became a powerful framework for examining your self, your situation and your choices. Virginia believed that counseling and therapy experiences seek to engage powerfully with the inner self. Counseling sessions encourage the client to face pain and problems, to accept the present, and to discover inner joy and peace of mind.

These goals are achieved by congruent living principles:

- To communicate clearly
- To cooperate rather than compete
- To empower rather than subjugate
- To enhance individual uniqueness rather than categorize
- To use authority to guide and accomplish "What fits" rather than force compliance through the tyranny of power
- To love, value and respect themselves fully
- To be personally and socially responsible
- To use problems as challenges and opportunities for creative solutions"

What will cause each of us to change our minds? I believe it will be when we love and value ourselves enough and recognize that we are spiritual beings.

This training is core curriculum for all levels of training offered through the Institute for CAM Studies. The focus is on bring forward your deepest wishes for your professional career path and personal life. Our goal is to support your deepest dream as supported by your spiritual guidance

How is this training different and the same as other Satir training.?

As Virginia said: “We connect through our sameness and grow from our differences”

We are living in a historic time. “A new evolution to humankind is afoot. All people who are working toward becoming more fully human will be bridges to that new time. We are the transition people...It is urgent that we nourish and develop the buds of sanity and humanness that are emerging. What we have going for us is a fantastic know-how of technical development and proven intellectual ability. We know how to probe and investigate practically everything. Our challenge now is to develop human beings with values – moral, ethical, and humanistic that can effectively utilize this development. When we achieve that, we will be able to enjoy this most wonderful planet and the life that inhabits it. WE ARE ON THE WAY. Satir 1988: The New Peoplemaking p. xi
